

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

To provide a novel liquid crystal display device comprising a light reflection layer where light is likely to more effectively reflect, and a method of manufacturing the same. The present invention can realize high resolution and high opening rate by using a dielectric multi-layer film as the light reflection layer to form thereon a pixel electrode consisting of a transparent conductive film.

SECRET